Seminar outline
This full-day seminar is designed to provide people who have a direct interest in the functions of the New South Wales Parliament, particularly public servants, with practical information on how the Legislative Council – the ‘House of Review’ – performs its legislative, representative and scrutiny functions.

Sessions will be presented by senior staff of the Legislative Council, the President and a panel of members from different political parties.

The emphasis of the seminar is how the Legislative Council holds the executive government to account, and the implications of this for government departments and other organisations.

Topics include
• Legislative process
• Conduct of a sitting day
• Committee system
