- Smart and Skilled has strict contractual requirements on ethical marketing - reports of offering inappropriate inducements to students (including free laptops and spotter fees) will be investigated and tough contract penalties and sanctions may apply including referral to Australian Skill Quality Authority (ASQA), the national regulator.

- I am advised that on 4 January 2016, the Department of Premier and Cabinet received a letter from the Independent Commission Against Corruption (the ICAC) pursuant to section 53 of the Independent Commission Against Corruption Act 1988 (the 'Act').
- The ICAC stated that the issue raised had been referred to the Department for information.
- The referral did not require any advice in response, provided that a report under section 11 of the Act was not deemed necessary. In January 2016, the Department reviewed the information forwarded by the ICAC and determined it did not reveal any new information to that previously canvassed.

- (1) Do you support the recent comments in the Newcastle Herald on 12 February 2016 by Keolis Downer, a contender for the Government's proposed privately operated Transport for Newcastle, that light rail systems are 'really for the size of a city which are bigger than Newcastle. So we are not pushing to put in trams'?
 - (2) Do you support his further comments that 'a tram of 2.5 kilometres should be extended at some point in the future'?
 - (a) If so, when will you expand the proposed light rail?
 - (3) Can you address the concerns that Keolis Downer has raised?

Answer—

As this matter relates to the portfolio of the Minister for Transport and Infrastructure, I have referred the question and received the following response:

As New South Wales' second largest city, Newcastle deserves a world-class, integrated transport network to support the broader revitalisation vision.

In The Newcastle Herald on 14 February 2016, the CEO of Keolis Downer stated : 'The New South Wales Government proposal to introduce light rail to the city is right. Light rail will provide the best opportunity for an accessible and attractive public transport network'.

The Government has committed funding to investigate extending the light rail network in the future, including extensions to key destinations such as Hunter Stadium, John Hunter Hospital, the University of Newcastle, and major retail and renewal areas. The first stage of light rail will be constructed with a view of not precluding possible future expansion options.

- (1) What action will the Government take, following agreement among Australian environment Ministers to phase out microbeads in personal care products by 1 July 2018?
 - (2) What assessment has the Government made on the effectiveness of the phase-out?

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Monday 21 March 2016

- (3) Why was a two and a half year timeframe adopted, given microbeads released into waters will do very long term destruction and already high levels of microbeads have been found at Middle Harbour?
- (4) Why was a voluntary model adopted when the United States is legislating a phase-out?
- (5) What position did the New South Wales Government take at the meeting of environment Ministers on 15 December 2015 on this topic?
- (6) What consideration will the Government give to legislating a ban or supporting an earlier phase-out target?

Answer—

- (1) The Government is proud to have led the initiative to phase out microbeads in personal care products nationally. We formed the NSW Microplastics Working Group in 2014 to develop an evidence based approach. The working group includes leading scientists, industry and environmental groups, as well as Commonwealth and Government representatives. The group's work informed the decision by the Australian environment ministers to phase out microbeads. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) continues to work closely with the Commonwealth Government and industry to develop and negotiate the terms of the industry agreement.
 - (2) The EPA is working closely with leading industry groups to ensure that the agreement will be effective. As set out in the resolution of the Australian environment ministers made on 15 December 2015, 'Ministers agreed that they would consider further actions, if required to address outstanding products that contain microbeads.' This resolution is available on the Commonwealth Department of the Environment website at www.environment.gov.au.
 - (3) Personal care products can take a number of years to reformulate. This period closely aligns with the phase out periods in other jurisdictions such as the USA. It enables industry to source alternative ingredients which are 'benign by design'. The Commonwealth Government announced on 29 February 2016 that it will introduce legislation to ban microbeads on 1 July 2017 if a voluntary approach has not already achieved an effective ban.
 - (4) This approach being taken was agreed by the Australian environment ministers at the December 2015 meeting.
 - (5) The Government supported the agreed approach, although it also advocated a legislated ban at the end of the voluntary phase-out.
 - (6) The Government supports the December 2015 resolution of the Australian environment ministers and the subsequent announcement by the Commonwealth Government on 29 February 2016.

Answer—

As this matter relates to the portfolio of the Minister for Corrections, I have referred the question and received the following response:

The Han Wade Noonan MP, Victorian Minister for Corrections, has made representations to the Commonwealth Attorney-General on behalf of Australian Corrective Services Ministers requesting legislative change on the use of unmanned aerial vehicles near prisons.

This course of action was agreed to at the 2015 Corrective Services Ministers' Conference.

Monday 21 March 2016

- (b) If no, will the Premier meet me and concerned citizens on the school site who are opposed to the proposed sell-off of the farm and relocation of the school to Hawkesbury?

Answer—

Information regarding scheduled meetings is published in accordance with Government policy.

The funds from the sale of the current Hurlstone Agricultural site will be used to support educational outcomes for the Western Sydney area:

- $35 million for a new Hurlstone Agricultural High School at the Western Sydney University Hawkesbury Campus;
- $30 million for a new educational precinct at Glenfield;
- More than $100 million for over 180 additional classrooms in South Western Sydney- creating approximately 5,000 new public school places.

The Minister for Education has consulted with stakeholders to deliver this transformative educational project.

ServiceNSW was established to deliver on this vision and is currently rolling out one-stop shop service centres across NSW. The centres provide expanded hours, greater services and an improved customer service experience.

As part of this roll-out, the services previously offered at the Ingleburn motor registry are now provided at Service NSW Liverpool. This service centre offers over 850 transactions from agencies across government, including many that were not previously available in the area.

With regards to the footpath excavation, construction and reinstatement works carried out by multiple telecommunications, water, electricity, gas, transport, roads and local council authorities, as well as service providers contracted to these agencies:

- (1) What process does the Government use to coordinate the multiple agencies, organisations and businesses that may excavate, construct and reinstate footpaths?

- (5) How does the Government ensure that there is one central place where information about local projects is available for residents, business operators and visitors to plan their activities and address complaints?
- (6) What plans does the Government have to improve coordination and information?
- (7) What plans does the Government have to improve coordination and better inform those affected by footpath excavation, construction and reinstatement?

Answer—

Regulation of the work of utility companies is provided for under legislation, including the Electricity Supply Act 1995, Gas Supply Act 1996 and Sydney Water Act 1994. There are specific obligations when it comes to work carried out on public reserves or roads (the definition of which includes footpaths).

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Monday 21 March 2016

These include an obligation to consult and an obligation to make good any damage made in the course of carrying out work (Electricity Supply Act 1995). As councils are responsible for roads in their local area, coordination of works that impact on roads is primarily the shared responsibility of councils and utility companies.

Utility companies are also guided by Codes of Practice; electricity companies refer to the NSW Code of Practice for Authorised Network Operators, which is approved under the Environmental Planning and Assessment Regulation 2000. The State Environmental Planning Policy (Infrastructure) 2007 sets out planning provisions and development controls for telecommunication facilities in New South Wales.
