*8084 POINT-TO-POINT SPEED CAMERAS—Ms Jodie Harrison asked the Minister for Roads, Maritime and Freight—

- (1) Has Roads and Maritime Services extended point-to-point speed camera technology to cars across New South Wales like Western Australia, South Australia, Queensland, and Victoria?
 - (a) If not, why not?

Answer—

I am advised:

Since 2010, point-to-point camera enforcement lengths in New South Wales have been installed on key heavy vehicle routes to target heavy vehicle speeding.

The Government continues to implement the NSW Speed Camera Strategy 2012, which provides an integrated framework on how the four types of cameras used in New South Wales – mobile, red-light, fixed speed and point-to-point cameras – operate together for light and heavy vehicle enforcement.

*8085 MENTAL HEALTH TRAINING FOR POLICE OFFICERS—Ms Jodie Harrison asked the Minister for Police, and Minister for Emergency Services—

- (2) Will NSW Police place an emphasis on specific de-escalation techniques in future mental health training for NSW Police Officers?
- (3) Does NSW Police use role-play in mental health training for NSW Police Officers?

Answer—

The NSW Police Force (NSWPF) has advised me:

(1) The NSWPF runs a range of courses on mental health issues, including courses tailored specifically for frontline officers; supervisors and practitioners; Mental Health Contact Officers; and Region corporate sponsors; as well as Police Academy recruits.

(2) The NSWPF already places an emphasis on de-escalation techniques in its mental health training, and this is being further strengthened in training currently being developed by the Mental Health Intervention Team (MHIT).

(3) The NSWPF uses role-play in its mental health training in a series of scenarios that place officers in challenging situations and are used to assess their negotiation skills as well as their understanding of mental health issues.

The MHIT works closely with external providers, clinicians and NSW Health to ensure frontline police receive the best possible training in this area. This includes learning from previous responses to critical incidents.

Answer—

I am advised the Department of Family and Community Services funds a variety of programs in the Windale area to support women and children and that further information is available at www.facs.nsw.gov.au.

(1) The Government has made a number of commitments towards Reparations for Stolen Generations survivors. This includes the Stolen Generations Advisory Committee, the Stolen Generations Reparations Scheme and funding support for the four Stolen Generations Organisations in New South Wales. Further information on this is outlined below. A progress report on the Government Response to Unfinished Business will be tabled in Parliament before the end of 2018.

(2) The Stolen Generations Advisory Committee has been established to provide advice on the implementation of the Government's response to Unfinished Business. Through the Advisory Committee, representatives from Stolen Generations survivor organisations work with government officials from the Departments responsible for delivering services or supports for survivors. The Advisory Committee is providing input into the Unfinished Business Progress Report to Parliament, due to be tabled in Parliament by the end of 2018.

(3) The Stolen Generations Reparations Scheme commenced on 1 July 2017. As of 1 May 2018, 325 people have been assessed as eligible for a Reparations payment.

Survivors who receive a Reparations Payment can also choose to receive a personalised apology. Aboriginal Affairs has been working with these individuals to source impact statements to allow the personalised apologies to be prepared.

(4) The Public Service Commission is leading work on establishing a training package to build a trauma informed public sector workforce. Outcomes from OCHRE healing forums and consultation with the Advisory Committee will inform the final product.

(5) The Stolen Generations Healing Fund has not commenced. The Fund requires careful design to ensure that it complements, and does not duplicate, the work of the Stolen Generations survivor organisations. It is expected that the Healing Fund will be developed by the end of 2018.

(6) Direct funding will be provided to Stolen Generations Organisations (SGO) for collective healing in accordance with reparations principles in recognition of the hurt and suffering caused to the survivors of the Stolen Generations. SGO Funding Guidelines were finalised in February 2018. These establish baseline requirements for governance and public accountability for the release of the Reparations funds.

In the interim, Aboriginal Affairs has been providing financial and non-financial transitional support to the SGOs, including funding meetings and other capacity building support.

(7) The Government is the first in Australia to incorporate healing into its Aboriginal Affairs policy – OCHRE. Aboriginal Affairs and the National Healing Foundation have delivered a number of OCHRE Healing Forums in partnership with interested Aboriginal communities to increase understanding of intergenerational trauma and healing in government, identify opportunities to improve the way government works with communities and to build local partnerships to support healing.

Sydney Water has taken 145 water samples in the Liverpool area since 2010 as part of its regular testing program across its area of operations. These samples are tested for a range of substances including lead.

During this time, not a single test result has exceeded the recommended safety limit of 10 micrograms per litre in drinking water under Australian Drinking Water Guidelines.

Answer—

I'm advised Miller Technology High School staff reported damage to a vermiculite ceiling in Block E. The school was concerned the ceiling may contain asbestos and students were immediately moved to alternative locations.

Block E tested negative for asbestos. Two classrooms in Blocks B and D, however, tested positive. Students were immediately moved from the classrooms.

The classrooms were deemed safe by occupational hygienists. In an abundance of caution, it was decided that the classrooms would be closed off and works to remove asbestos containing materials would be undertaken.

*8109 ASSESSMENT, DETERMINATION AND PROCLAMATION OF DROUGHT IN REGIONAL NEW SOUTH WALES—Mr Philip Donato asked the Minister for Lands and Forestry, and Minister for Racing representing the Minister for Primary Industries, Minister for Regional Water, Minister for Trade and Industry—

Will you immediately assess, determine, and where appropriate, declare the drought stricken areas across the Orange electorate and the broader Regional New South Wales, as a natural disaster and urgently provide the affected farmers access to emergency funding?

Answer—

The Australian Government's Natural Disaster Relief and Recovery Arrangements (NDRRA) provide a definition of a natural disaster for which assistance can be made available. A natural disaster is one, or a combination of rapid onset events such as a bushfire, earthquake or flood. Drought is not identified as a rapid onset event and therefore cannot be "declared" and does not receive assistance under the NDRRA.

New South Wales does not have the discretion to vary this definition.

Considering recent findings by Fire & Rescue NSW which revealed that fires in modern homes spread in less than five minutes, will the Government change regulations so that every New South Wales residence requires interconnected smoke alarms in each room?

Answer—

I am advised:

Requirements relating to smoke alarms in new buildings and new building work are contained in the National Construction Code, which is published and maintained by the Australian Building Codes Board (ABCB) in conjunction with the States and Territories.

Subject to ratification of its 2018-19 work program by the Building Ministers Forum, the ABCB will be undertaking a project in response to the smoke alarms research that was carried out by Fire and Rescue NSW (in collaboration with the ABCB). This project will look at among other things, the requirements relating to the number and location of alarms as well as issues to do with detecting the toxicity of chemicals produced by fires in modern homes. This work will inform any potential changes to the National Construction Code.

The Department of Planning and Environment will continue to monitor the matter, in consultation with other agencies including Fire and Rescue NSW, to determine if any action needs to be taken in advance of the national process.

I am advised:

In 2011, the matter of granting Exploration Licence 7270 was referred to the Independent Commission Against Corruption (ICAC).

ICAC's findings were handed down in August 2013, where it made corrupt findings against Mr Ian Macdonald and Mr John Maitland, former leader of the Construction, Forestry, Mining and Energy Union's Mining and Energy Division.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Tuesday 5 June 2018

Mr Maitland was also a shareholder and chairman of Doyles Creek Mining Pty Ltd at the time the exploration licence was granted.

On 15 April 2015, the High Court unanimously upheld the validity of provisions which cancelled, without compensation, the exploration licences issued in relation to NuCoal's Doyles Creek, Mount Penny, and Glendon Brook.

I am aware that NuCoal is continuing to pursue the issue of compensation for its overseas-based shareholders through Australian free trade agreements. The company has stated that these actions could take place under Australia's free trade agreements with Singapore, Hong Kong and the United States. I am advised that the Australia-United States Free Trade Agreement requires the consent of both the United States Government and the Australian Government before any action can proceed.
