How many officers in the NSW Police Force speak a language other than English?

Answer—

The NSW Police Force has advised me that there are 1,388 police officers recorded on its database as speaking a second language. However, as this information is voluntarily submitted by officers, this figure may not entirely reflect actual numbers.

*4589 NON ENGLISH SPEAKING BACKGROUND POLICE PROGRAMS—Mr Guy Zangari asked the Attorney General, and Minister for Justice representing the Minister for Police and Emergency Services, Minister for the Hunter, and Vice-President of the Executive Council—

What programs are in place in New South Wales police stations to cater for people from non-English speaking backgrounds?

Answer—

I am advised:

The NSW Police Force provides programs and services for its culturally, linguistically and religiously diverse communities in line with its obligations outlined in the Government's "Principles of Multiculturalism Act 2000".

Multicultural Community Liaison Officers work from Local Area Commands, engaging with local communities and developing models for local police to work with ethnic groups to target a range of issues relating to crime and antisocial behaviour.

All Commands use accredited interpreters, local ethnic media and multilingual printed material to deliver Community Safety and Victim Support Programs to non-English speakers, to tackle issues such as domestic violence and youth crime in these communities and to assist vulnerable groups such as newly arrived refugees and asylum seekers.

*4591 FAIRFIELD ENGLISH AS A SECOND LANGUAGE SCHOOLS—Mr Guy Zangari asked the Minister for Education—

What was the English as a Second Language teacher to student ratio in schools in the Fairfield electorate for:

Answer—

The teacher to student ratio varies depending on the arrangements for ESL provision in each school context. Schools determine the best way to use their ESL allocation/s to respond to the level of need of their students.

Was the Government's decision to commit to light rail in Newcastle based on the results of a feasibility study?

If so, where can the feasibility study be viewed?

Answer—

The Government will direct $340 million from the 99 year lease of Newcastle Port to the revitalisation of Newcastle in addition to $120 million already committed by the Government. *4615 BUDGET PAPER 2013-14 CAPITAL INVESTMENT IN RAIL—Mr Clayton Barr asked the Minister for Transport—

With regard to capital investment in rail over the forward estimates outlined in Budget Paper 2:

Answer—

I am advised:

The $3.8 billion shown in table 9.4 of Budget Paper 2 refers to the expenditure by non commercial Public Trading Enterprises. It includes expenditure by the rail entities and State Transit but excludes expenditure for rail projects managed and delivered by Transport for NSW.

- (9) What further action will the Government take to prevent train and railway noise impacts on Domain Apartments residents?

Answer—

I am advised:

- (1) I can confirm receipt of representation in relation to rail noise.
- (2) - (9) Sydney Trains is focusing on track maintenance, including rail grinding, re-railing and new sleepers, to reduce noise on the Eastern Suburbs Railway Line.

Sydney Trains is also replacing old expansion switches on the outbound line to reduce noise when trains travel over switches, and is replacing existing timber sleepers with Fibre-reinforced Foamed Urethane sleepers, and new rail pad plates, to restore track stability and reduce noise from passing trains.

The NSW Environmental Protection Authority's Rail Infrastructure Noise Guideline does not apply to the Eastern Suburbs Railway Line as it is an existing rail line with no new rail infrastructure projects planned. Sydney Trains' Environment Protection Licence contains goals for train pass-by noise, as opposed to noise limits.

Sydney Trains will continue to monitor track condition and undertake maintenance of the Eastern Suburbs Railway Line, as part of the Government's comprehensive approach to managing the impacts of rail noise.
