*2182 STRATA OWNERS AND TENANTS—Ms Julia Finn asked the Minister for Innovation and Better Regulation—

- (3) What estimate has been made of the number of collective sales to be sought in the first year of operation of the new provisions?

Answer—

(1) A comprehensive public education and awareness campaign to help strata communities prepare for the more than 90 changes to the strata schemes legislation is being developed and finalised.

Communication activities will target some two million lot owners, renters and industry professionals in NSW to inform them of their rights and responsibilities under the new laws. The campaign will include implementation of a peer-reviewed advertising campaign in line with requirements for NSW Government communications.

Primary target audiences identified include NSW residents in approximately 75,000 strata schemes (including tenants and lot owners), landlords (renting out strata-titled property) and owner-investors (who may not live in NSW). Other targeted groups comprise strata professionals including NSW licensed strata managing agents, office-bearers in strata schemes, real estate agents, relevant advocacy groups, industry associations, property developers and builders.

Currently, the NSW Fair Trading website has a series of web pages, facts sheets and frequently asked questions which cover various aspects of the reforms, including an overview of management reforms, strata managing agent reforms, by-law reforms, managing disputes, and the new collective sale and strata renewal reforms. These web pages and fact sheets will be continually updated to ensure comprehensive but readily understood information is made available to all stakeholders. Fair Trading will continue to liaise with key stakeholders for feedback to ensure that the campaign meets their audiences' needs.

(2) Fair Trading will establish a Collective Sale Advice and Advocacy Program consisting of a hotline to assist and advise owners and tenants and provide referrals to relevant organisations such as Housing NSW, the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS), Tenants Union and the NSW Law Society.

Elderly and vulnerable owner-occupiers will have access to free legal advice and assistance to support them. Information and basic advice will be provided and referrals made to specialist advisers, such as accountants and financial planners, to assist dissenting owners with Court preparations.
